AS SOON as the news of General Sherman's death was received in this city, the flag over the U. S. A. it had been placed on a mast and everywhere the deepest regret was expressed at the death of the old soldier. Mr. Sherman, who is a nephew of the deceased, leaves for the East to-day to attend the obsequies.

AT 8:30 yesterday morning an accident occurred on the Sanpete branch of the Rio Grande which nearly resulted in a wreck. It seems that a mixed train was passing over a trestle when the engine, which was pulling a heavy load, struck a pile of lumber which had been thrown across the track. No one was hurt and but little damage was done.

MR. GEORGE DUNFORD met with a painful, and what may prove a very serious accident yesterday afternoon. He was on a step ladder in his boot and shoe store on First South, when he fell to the floor, striking his head with such force that he fractured the skull. Dr. Beattie was called, and found Mr. Dunford unconscious and suffering from concussion of the brain. He was removed to his home and grave fears are expressed that the injuries may prove fatal.

THE FLEET who made an indecent proposal and exposed to a young lady in the corner of Second and Third streets, and a few days ago, is still at work. Several ladies have been made the recipients of his indecent proposals, but have refrained from speaking on account of the publicity of the matter. The ladies all say that they can not believe that a man of such low character would so far forget himself as to be caught by the police and his career cut short. The young lady who was spoken of by THE HERALD some days ago as having been rescued from a severe illness was pronounced by the doctor to be nervous system and suffered a relapse.

WONDERLAND, the new people's theatre and curiosity hall located on Second South beside the Cullen hotel, and managed by Messrs. Sackett & Sauter, who control a number of these places, was opened last evening under very favorable circumstances indeed. The crowd that visited the place during the evening numbered 1,500 people in all. The place has been very neatly prepared and presents a clean and entertaining appearance. The curiosities are on the top floor and from there the crowds go down to the bottom floor where the stage shows are given and consists of a number of clean and bright sketch acts by a number of fairly well known artists. The place if conducted on the principles it has started upon, will without question be a success.

A MAN OF COURAGE

Prominent Democrats Discuss Ex-President Cleveland's Letter.

IDOL OF THE UTAH DEMOCRACY

Parley Williams Amused at the Republicans' Efforts to Kill Him Off Every Thirty Days.

Even the sad intelligence of the death of General Sherman does not abate the discussion of Ex-President Cleveland's recent utterances on the silver question.

In casual talks with leading Democrats it was easy to see that Ex-President Cleveland's popularity was not diminished, and that even the most pronounced silver men were ready to temper his remarks with many grains of charity and alone for his radical views with many tons of admiration for his frankness and courage.

Cleveland has been the idol of the Utah democracy, and in no other state or territory in the union can the ex-President find a more loyal and patriotic following. The devotion with which he is regarded intensifies the interest in any position that he might take which would in any way limit his chances for the Presidential nomination.

A number of leading Democrats were approached by a HERALD reporter for their opinion of Cleveland's letter against free coinage and the influence it would have on his nomination and election to the presidency.

Hon. Parley Williams was first called upon and the unfaltering seer of Democratic principles in national politics was found engrossed in interpreting the significance of certain clauses in a legal document to a remunerative client. Mr. Williams was in a very pleasant mood and chatted away in this vein:

"My views are that the Republicans are kept very busy killing Mr. Cleveland (Cleveland) on every thirty or sixty days. While I am inclined to favor free coinage, I am not entirely satisfied that free and unlimited coinage will result to a certain extent as Mr. Cleveland wishes. I presume the country will never be satisfied until it experiments with free coinage. But it does amuse me greatly to see the high price with which the Republicans witness Mr. Cleveland committing political suicide every thirty days or so."

"I presume," said Colonel Lett, "it will affect his nomination very materially and may affect his election. In case the Republicans pass the silver bill they will secure the favor of the Farmers' alliance, and this action may be carried on into the next campaign. I am impressed that Mr. Cleveland has been talking in advance of what good policy would dictate, the same as he did on the tariff previous to the last election. If he had then remained silent he would now be President, instead of Harrison. Mr. Cleveland may spoil his chances for the nomination by his talk, and if the Republicans pass the silver bill and nominate a candidate in sympathy with that measure, there is a strong probability that with the aid of the Alliance they can elect their candidate. I have a high regard for Cleveland's frankness, but not as good opinion as to his political discretion."

Albert Watkins, one of the best posted Democrats in Nebraska on the tariff question, who was postmaster at Lincoln during the President Cleveland's administration, was found in company with Colonel Lett. "I have taken a deep interest in THE HERALD's admirable tariff articles," said Mr. Watkins, in this way placing himself on good terms with the reporter. In response to the reporter's questions, Mr. Watkins said:

"Regarding Mr. Cleveland as the recognized leader of the Democratic party and almost certainly its next candidate for President and considering, moreover, that he must be cognizant of this relation to his party, it seems to me that it was not good politics to declare himself on the silver question at this time; and political ethics did not demand such a declaration. Notwithstanding this, however, I think that Cleveland will be nominated and elected in 1892. His views on the silver question, well known before his late expression of opinion, make him strong in the Democratic eastern states, in which I count for '92, Massachusetts as well as New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and with a strong probability of New Hampshire and Rhode Island strengthened by his uncompromising silver opinions. This great prestige which Cleveland will command and which no other man will not in my opinion, by the help of Democrats, stand in fear of such poor Republican strongholds as Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas. The force of his policy of the Republican party will hold the South solid and enthusiastic for success, and so for Cleveland in 1892. Then it is a long time, politically speaking, before June or July, 1892 and in the meantime the present sharp edge of the silver question as a political question will be blunted. Somebody has said that God hates a coward, and do men and on the contrary they love a brave man. Cleveland's reputation for bravery will be enhanced in the anti-silver East by the letter in question."

Judge Judd valued his own opinion more than that of any other private citizen and he noted it down with his characteristic lucid and unimpassioned English. He said:

"I am strongly in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, first, because I am satisfied that the demands of our trade call for a much larger volume of currency than we have. Second because I believe that the United States can maintain the double standard of silver and gold at par. As to Mr. Cleveland's letter on silver I can only say that he takes a different view and we do not agree."

NEW DENTAL PARLORS.

Dr. Follett, of San Jose, Settles in Salt Lake.

Dr. Follett, a well-known dentist of San Jose, has come to Salt Lake to settle. San Jose, he says, is the land of roses and sunshine, but Salt Lake is the land of growth and enterprise, and he heard so much of the business state here that he pulled up stakes and brought all his fine dental machinery to Salt Lake.

Dr. Follett has opened new and handsome parlors at 15 East Second South, up stairs. He makes a specialty of bridge and crown work, and by the new hermetical sealing process he can take teeth that are most decayed and make them good and serviceable for years. The doctor's dental chairs have all the recent pneumatic improvements and are most comfortable. The parlors suggest skill and care and a knowledge of the science of dentistry.

HE-REYR BROWN COMBINATION CHECK SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS.

Consists of a book of original entry which shows a daily balance of the actual business transacted without reference to the ledger or ledgers. By adopting this system a firm has all the advantage of a trial balance every day, instead of having to wait for a balance sheet taken from the ledger once a month. It saves time, labor and locates an error without checking the ledger. It is endorsed by every experienced bookkeeper who has examined into its merits and may be seen in actual practice at my office.

SOMETHING WE SHOULD APPRECIATE.

The Colorado Midland train leaving Salt Lake from Rio Grande depot at 10:45 p. m. for Denver and all eastern points, has a Pullman sleeper which starts from Salt Lake running through to Denver. Passengers going over Colorado Midland can find this sleeper opposite Rio Grande depot after leaving. Retaining this sleeper leaves at 8:15 p. m., arrives at Salt Lake at 1:45 a. m., second morning. Sleeper is set off at Salt Lake and passengers allowed to remain in car until 7:30 a. m., thereby passengers can get full night's rest. Our people should appreciate this thoughtfulness for Salt Lake and return the compliment by giving this line their patronage.

NINE MORE STORES

William Burke Has a Good Sized Boom in West Temple Stores.

MORE STATE STREET BUILDINGS

Corner Lots are King, and the Men Who Made Fortunes Return to Make More Money.

William Burke, who has been holding back his building enterprises on account of the close money market, informed the HERALD reporter yesterday that there had been such a change for the better that he was now warranted in going ahead with his plans.

Mr. Burke is one of Salt Lake's largest property holders and is not only the owner of an entire street but has the title to many valuable business corners. His building projects include seven store rooms on West Temple, which he will erect on the ground between the drug store at the corner of Market street and the McIntosh residence. He also has the plans for two store rooms on Market street, just east of the drug store. These buildings, with the Old Fellows' hall, which is now assured, will give the new thoroughfare a good send-off.

The new buildings to go up on the State road during the coming summer include the filling up of the big gap between the Holmes block and the Knutsford block—some 174 feet of frontage. This is leased ground, and among those who propose to build are Mr. Biggs, Colonel Selts and George A. Lowe.

As has already been stated in these columns, there is a probability of a six story building on the Kickett's corner, diagonally across Third South from the Knutsford. These new enterprises, in addition to the Brooks court, makes a very respectable showing for the state roads.

A $12,500 Sale.

Messrs. Webster & Armstrong are among the most energetic real estate agents in this city and they never allow the grass to grow in summer or the snow to blow in winter. They simply press on regardless of weather or climate conditions. Their latest negotiations have been directed towards the sale of thirty lots in Boulevard addition, and the lucky purchasers are Messrs. Vrach & Crossman, attorneys-at-law, who have their office under the Commercial National bank. The consideration was $12,500.

He Has Returned.

Thomas Rollington, of Marshall, Michigan, was one of the many daring adventurers of Salt Lake real estate during the active market of last winter. Mr. Rollington came out of the year's trading with several hundred thousand dollars to his credit and he naturally left Salt Lake with a happy heart, and returned to his Michigan home very much impressed with Salt Lake as a money making place.

This was during the boom.

Mr. Rollington returns to find Salt Lake greater and more promising than ever. He is surprised at the wondrous changes that one year has brought to pass. The wages to employ transient and security lines as they whirl along the streets at almost lightning speed, carrying passengers to every direction of the compass with speed and astonishment. This does not surprise him more than to contemplate the massive business blocks that have reared their proud heads heavenward. He reasons that all this means a great city, and now that he beholds the fulfillment of his predictions he banks, more than ever, on the future of the city beside the salt sea.
